

Cookies!

The first chocolate chip cookie was invented in 1937 by Ruth Graves Wakefield of Whitman, Massachusetts.

Ruth ran the Toll House Restaurant, where travelers ate a meal while their horse rested.

One of Ruth's favorite recipes was for chocolate butter cookies, a recipe that dated back to colonial times.

One day Ruth ran out of baker's chocolate, so instead she she chopped up some semi-sweet chocolate and stirred the chunks of chocolate into the cookie dough.

She thought that the chocolate would melt and spread throughout each cookie, but instead the chocolate bits held their shape and created the very first
